Proposed Amendments to National Instrument 81-102 Investment Funds

Exemptions from Certain Repurchase Transactions Requirements for Investment Funds

September 17, 2026

Introduction

The Canadian Securities Administrators (the CSA or we) are publishing proposed amendments to National Instrument 81-102 Investment Funds (the Proposed Amendments) for a 60-day comment period.

The Proposed Amendments provide exemptions from certain repurchase transactions requirements for reporting issuer investment funds where the purchaser is the Bank of Canada.

The Proposed Amendments:

- (a) codify the temporary exemptive relief issued on July 24, 2025 through Coordinated Blanket Order 81-930 Exemptions from Certain Repurchase Transactions Requirements for Investment Funds (the Coordinated Blanket Order) for the Bank of Canada's repurchase facility, the Contingent Term Repo Facility (CTRF), and
- (b) provide an exemption for future repurchase facilities provided by the Bank of Canada.

The text of the Proposed Amendments is contained in Annex A of this notice and will also be available on websites of the following CSA jurisdictions:

Substance and Purpose

The purpose of the Proposed Amendments is to provide harmonized exemptions from certain repurchase transactions requirements for reporting issuer investment funds where the purchaser is the Bank of Canada. The exemptions contemplated in the Proposed Amendments would allow reporting issuer investment funds to access the CTRF, as well as any future repurchase facilities provided by the Bank of Canada.

The Bank of Canada currently offers the CTRF for reporting issuer investment funds, which was developed to support the stability of the Canadian financial system by assisting market participants to address liquidity issues that may arise if there are severe market-wide liquidity stresses. Under the CTRF, the Bank of Canada will repurchase certain eligible fixed income securities issued or guaranteed by the Government of Canada or a provincial government. The CTRF offers Canadian-dollar funding for a term of up to 30 days to eligible participants. The CTRF may be activated and deactivated by the Bank of Canada, at its discretion. The Bank of Canada may offer other repurchase facilities to reporting issuer investments funds in the future.

The Proposed Amendments further recommendations made by the International Monetary Fund's 2025 Financial Sector Assessment Program for Canada relating to systemic liquidity¹ as they facilitate access to bilateral liquidity for regulated investment funds to address potential severe market conditions.

The Coordinated Blanket Order was implemented through local blanket orders in each CSA jurisdiction. The Coordinated Blanket Order is not subject to an expiration date in any of the CSA jurisdictions except for in Ontario. The local Coordinated Blanket Order in Ontario (the OSC Blanket Order) is in effect from July 24, 2025 to January 24, 2027, and will, provided required approvals are obtained, be extended by OSC Rule 81-931 Extension to Ontario Securities Commission Coordinated Blanket Order 81-930 Exemptions from Certain Repurchase Transactions Requirements for Investment Funds (OSC Rule 81-931) for an additional 18-month period from January 24, 2027 to July 24, 2028. The temporary exemptive relief provided by the OSC Blanket Order and OSC Rule 81-931 cannot be subject to a further extension under Ontario securities laws.

The CSA will consider whether any changes to the Proposed Amendments are needed following a consideration of any comments we receive on the publication for comment. If the Proposed Amendments do not require a republication for comment, we anticipate seeking all necessary approvals to adopt the Proposed Amendments with an aim of having the Proposed Amendments come into force on July 24, 2028 (the Effective Date).

¹ Canada: Financial Sector Assessment Program-Technical Note on Systemic Liquidity Assessment (August 8, 2025) (IMF Country Report No. 25/233), Recommendation #10.

Background

During times when the CTRF is activated, we recognize that an investment fund with exposure to Canadian dollar money markets and/or fixed income securities may benefit from accessing the CTRF to manage its liquidity during periods of severe market-wide liquidity stresses in the Canadian dollar money markets and/or fixed income markets. However, accessing the CTRF would result in a reporting issuer investment fund being unable to comply with certain repurchase transactions requirements. The Coordinated Blanket Order provides reporting issuer investment funds with exemptive relief from those requirements to facilitate access to the CTRF.

Summary of the Proposed Amendments

The exemptions contemplated by the Proposed Amendments are consistent with the temporary exemptions provided by the Coordinated Blanket Order. However, the Proposed Amendments would also allow reporting issuer investment funds to access future repurchase facilities provided by the Bank of Canada.

Securities legislation sets out the standard of care for the management of investment funds, requiring managers to act honestly, in good faith, and in the best interests of the investment fund. Investment fund managers of investment funds that access the CTRF or another Bank of Canada repurchase facility would remain subject to the statutory standard of care.

Consistent with the Coordinated Blanket Order, the Proposed Amendments would require that the cash delivered to the investment fund as consideration for sold securities in a repurchase transaction with the Bank of Canada only be used for liquidity management of the investment fund.

The Proposed Amendments also require investment funds relying on the exemptions to comply with certain reporting requirements. The requisite notices and reports must be delivered to the regulator or securities regulatory authority.

Local Matters

Annex B is being published in any local jurisdiction that is making related changes to local securities laws, including local notices or other policy instruments in that jurisdiction. It also includes any additional information that is relevant to that jurisdiction only.
